Gribbin Head Day Mark

Visible from land and sea, Gribbin Head is Fowey's sentinel. It is a striking landmark due to its red and white daymark tower. The daymark has sat upon the Gribbin since 1832, providing a navigational aid to mariners. Not far from here is Polridmouth, a lovely cove with two sandy beaches which come together at low tide. 11am - 5pm Gates open: 11am Last admission time: 4.45pm.
